OLIO IS STOLEN FROM WAREHOUSE

Investigation is being made into the break-in made at the Western Petroleum Distributing warehouse, the corner of 103 street and 41 avenue Wednesday night, when a fifty-gallon drum of crude oil was pilfered from an underground tank.

The refined oil was taken after it had been pumped in the large underground tank through which it was piped.

Lucien Vigne, manager, found the broken drum, and early Thursday morning and communicated with the South Side police station, where the fifty-gallon drum of oil had been pilfered from the warehouse, about 100 street and 41 avenue into a stubble field where it was loaded onto a light delivery truck.

DISPUTE OVER FARM IS GIVEN COURT AIRING

Wife of Real Estate Broker Sues for Balance of Purchase Price

Dispute over the purchase of a farm near Buxby, with accusations that the vendor had altered the papers and failed in larger figures, came before Mr. Justice Twiss this morning when Mrs. Helen Goodale, wife of W. E. Goodale, real estate broker, sued Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Young for $36,812, balance of purchase price and interest on the sale of a farm.

The defendants are counter-claiming for return of money paid and alleging misrepresentation, though the misrepresentation charge was withdrawn at the opening of the case.

Mr. R. H. Brown, M.L.A. and Horace Johnson are appearing for Mrs. Goodale and J. N. McDonald for the defendants.

The value of the farm is agreed by both parties at $45,000, but the price named in the agreement was $31,200. This was explained by the plaintiff as including $12,000 mortgage and interest and another bill on a house in the city which was valued at $1,000. The full balance of $36,812 was paid as initial cash payment.

SUBJECT OF QUESTIONING
An erasure on the agreement where the consideration was named, was the subject of much questioning. Mrs. Goodale, who does her own bookkeeping, said she had erased the line and retyped it to get and get it more in line, and that the sum named, $31,200, was the same in both printings.

Mr. Young contended that it read

"No Work, No Eat" Policy Adopted By M.D.'s. Convention

Unemployed Must Work For Their Relief Delegates Decide

The Biblical principle of earning one's daily bread by the sweat of the brow, was endorsed by the delegates to the Union of Alberta Municipalities, when they passed a resolution at their convention in the Macdonald hotel, Thursday morning, that unemployed must work for their relief.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Hovson, Young admitted that no allowance had been made for the mortgage on the house, etc. when he was credited with $1800 as a first mortgage on the house, etc. when he was credited with $1800 as a first mortgage on the house, etc. when he was credited with $1800 as a first mortgage on the house, etc.

The case is continuing Thursday afternoon.

Unanimity Reached At Regina Meeting

Unanimity of opinion was reached on practically all points brought up for discussion at the international conference held at Regina on Monday and Tuesday, according to Premier J. E. Brown, who is back after his tour.

The meeting, he said, went over point by point the various questions raised and compared notes in the position each province intended to take.

The premiers did not take time to discuss memoranda, but each province was given a chance to state the basis of the discussion and it is hoped that Alberta's will be ready by early next week.

PLANES WILL CARRY DOGS AT $1 EACH

Doggy Passengers Are Not Barred by Canadian Airways Pilots

Maybe the old saw about every dog having its day is right.

Anyhow, no less than three citizens got the idea within 15 minutes of each other Thursday morning to call up Canadian Airways local quarters here and ask if their dogs could be taken to Calgary by plane—presumably to compete in the forthcoming stampede, but not first and it was a new one on her.

Miss Elice "Nipper" got the call first and it was a new one on her. She will nonchalantly make you a reservation for a dog to be taken anywhere that the Canadian Airways agency fly, but doggy passengers were out of her line.

She cast an appealing glance at Gus Lundberg, office manager, and he said: "Tell 'em, one dog, one ticket."

Just then in barged big, beery James Bythell, one of the Calgary Edmonton run pilots, wearing a shaggy coat like unto that of an Airedale—a man just naturally at home with dogs or horses, one would guess.

He was just in time to go into action on the phone and the very lastly knows his stuff. His voice dripped sweetness like that of a drop of oil from a well, and a repentant saint, it certainly sounded like anything but dog's was the subject of the conversation.

You want to ship a dog over by plane? Sure, we'll take as many as you like, Well, of course, if they are gentle, well-behaved dogs, we'll take them right at the office and we'll put them on Calgary deliver them right to their destination. Yes, any time you like."

Such a generous attitude ship six mastiffs at once crack—that was the deal for a plane load of dogs to haul heavily on the deal!" asked a curious bystander.

Mr. Bythell beamed. "Well, just have a chance on that."

Well, it's his funeral—in France he was used to dogfights in the air.

France Willing To Meet German Wish By Time Payments

Ultimate Liability to Assured if Drain is Temporarily Held Up

By GEORGE HANAUER, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 23.—Germany's ultimate liability for reparations was the main subject of resumed conversations today between Great Britain and France.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, participated with Premier Edouard Herriot of France and M. Germain-Martin, the French finance minister, in early consultations.

Germany has asked for immediate cessation of the reparations payments for several reasons, the chief of which is the drain on unemployment on her resources.

INABILITY TO PAY
The experts have recognized her inability to increase internal taxes. The weight of Germany's external debt, the fact her railways possess no reserve and that their receipts are insufficient to meet the payments due to the German leaders at the reparations conference, arguing that if she has to resume debt payments, the economic position will be affected for years to come.

FRANCE REPLIES
To these arguments France replies she will be willing to suspend reparations payments over a period of years. There is therefore, France submits, no question of additional drain on the German people. But Premier Herriot declines to be lulled by such arguments.

Based on his stand on the report of the Basel experts on the Young committee report, Premier Herriot said that he has no reason why Germany should not resume payments. Such a suspension would be a disaster for the reparations fund.

Premier Herriot returns to Paris and Chamberlain from Paris of Germany's stand on the reparations fund. The British government has no reason why Germany should not resume payments. Such a suspension would be a disaster for the reparations fund.

The Passing Show

The Passing Show

Making election predictions must be classed among the extra-hazardous occupations.

A few hours before the votes were counted in Manitoba, Senator A. D. McRae embarked upon a forecast in which he gave the Conservatives a sure 30 out of 55 seats and said of the remainder "anything may happen." At the moment of writing it is uncertain whether they will get the six they formerly had.

Meetings are not always reliable indications. I have seen the largest halls packed to the doors with enthusiasts for the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, both in Toronto and Vancouver. But Sir Wilfrid never got a candidate in either city. The seating accommodation of the largest hall is so small compared with the number of voters. It can give no sure clue where public speakers and funds are sufficient to rouse enthusiasm in the party stalwarts.

The only sure educational weapon in a campaign is the newspaper, when it has behind it one or more minds capable of daily appeals of a sort people cannot help but read. No orator, however, persuasive, can match the writer. Where one speaks to his thousand the other speaks to his tens of thousands. Where the influence of the orator dies with the tones of his voice, the message of the writer is assured a longer life. The Romans said it; scripta manent—what is written lasts.

I have seen wonderful results come from newspaper campaigns—notably in the last provincial election in Saskatchewan when one paper, singlehanded, carried the burning evangel all over the province. But the Conservatives in Manitoba were handicapped by perfunctory, luke-warm news support, and not even the enthusiasm of packed city gatherings could stir through the cynicism the dead bones to life.

Despite Senator McRae's non-success as a political forecaster in Manitoba, he is on much more familiar ground in his demand for a back-to-the-land movement and more migrants from Great Britain.

But this only exhibits the folly of the authorities in clapping some thousands of the best land-workers in B.C. into jail for disrobing as a passive protest against official force.

The Douks are not criminals in an anti-social sense. Their gesture of nudity is founded in religious superstition. There is not a case for penal servitude but for segregation.

Already the Vancouver Sun has entered protest against the breaking up of families in sending the male Doukhobors

Above all, why cannot their children be restored to them on Piers Island, instead of becoming costly wards of the province and undergoing the cruel and unnatural punishment of separation from their parents?

Granted that it is a nuisance with our present unclean attitude towards nudity, to have these people in their colonies parading in the raw, looking for Jesus, all that is needed to meet the case is to keep them apart from the rest of the population. Surely that can be done without punishing society by taking these producers and making them dependents, and by the miserable cruelty of breaking up their families?

People will point to the awful example of Australia where a girls' ball team had shocked the State of New South Wales by appearing on the field without stockings. No doubt there are people among the prudish Australians

RAYMOND HAS HAD SUCCESS WITH SYSTEM

O. H. Snow, Town Secretary, Explains Plan at M.D.'s Convention

Merits of the "crip" system as adopted by the town of Raymond, Alta., were explained to delegates attending the convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday afternoon by O. H. Snow town secretary.

He was introduced to the meeting by Ald. J. W. Findlay, who has taken an interest in the proposal to issue scrip in this city.

Mr. Snow said this scrip was an edict scrip redeemable in cash on January 15 of the year following its issue, and that it was signed by the mayor and secretary of the town. It was received back by the municipality in the form of tax payments and the payment of water accounts.

TOTAL ISSUE $6,000

An issue of scrip of which amounted to the amount of $6,000 had been made. The town had already been repaid $2,000 in the form of tax payments.

The most satisfactory part of the scrip system was that it kept money circulating in Raymond which was otherwise lost to the town, where Mr. Snow pointed out.

During this time the town had no taxes had been collected by the town, due to scrip payments of 10 per cent of the business and 25-35 per cent of other taxes had already been collected.

All stores and other business institutions were accepting scrip which was not really a medium of exchange but a promissory note for 100 per cent of the business received 60 per cent of their salaries or wages and the remaining 40 per cent in the form of scrip, Mr. Snow said.

Do you consider that the early closing of the government liquor vendors' store is a help to the bootlegger?

This question was asked various citizens by The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter, Wednesday morning, producing the following answers:

E. E. KNOWLES, excise man and bootlegger: The best way to beat the bootlegger is to keep the government's alcohol business lines. Make liquor easy to get but of course at low prices.

The bootlegger does not make his when the sun shines. He makes it when the vendor's store closes and from all accounts it is doing very nicely.

If the United Kingdom nearly all the grocery stores sell liquor, it is because that bootleggers are unknown there.

"I believe in promoting temperance, but this will not come about through prohibition. The education of the rising generation will do far more to help temperance than will any form of law."

"The average citizen knows very well that there is a considerable amount of bootlegging in this city. The vendor's store was allowed to remain open until the 1st of June—this is done in many other large cities—it would combat the bootlegger."

Whether it is desirable or not, the fact remains that many individuals desire liquor in the evenings, at an hour when the liquor vendors are closed. This is not matter to these persons. When they want liquor they're going to get it and it is when the vendor's store is closed that they're going to get it. It is a necessary, sensible citizen requires liquor he obtains it. After the afternoon, they don't look ahead and, of course, he plays right into the bootlegger's hands.

The government does not encourage drink but it does encourage it. I have lived in Alberta for ten years and consider the present system of government control the best yet evolved—but it is not perfect.

I am interested in the drink question and I am a Canadian citizen in England for twenty years and in Canada for twenty years. I am convinced that if temperance is to be assured it will not be through prohibition but through proper control and education."

L. E. SMITH, filling station operator: "People who fill station on a crip can go to the liquor vendors in business hours and wait until they're closed. I don't see that the closing of the liquor vendors' store at the hour helps the bootlegger. People do not need to patronize him unless they want it."

Those who do buy liquor from the liquor vendors are sorry for the next day. In my opinion the present system of government control is the best yet evolved—but it is not perfect.

F. DIXON, teamster, forty years in the west: The early closing helps the bootlegger. The vendor's store should be kept open as long as the beer purveyors are in any way to check the bootlegger.

Hear Applications To Export Gas On Friday Morning

Applications for permission to export gas from the Kinross gas field, owned by the provincial government at the legislative building, commencing at 10 a.m. on Friday.

The applicants desire permission to build a pipeline with a view to supplying the Saskatchewan.

This matter provided the subject of a spirited debate in the closing days of the recent session of the legislature.

Edmonton will be represented by J. C. F. Brown, K.C., city solicitor and J. O'Connor, K.C., city clerk. It is not likely that any strenuous objections will be raised to the permit being granted providing ample assurance is given that Edmonton's future supply will not be in any way endangered.

It was an obvious fracture and of a kind difficult to heal in any other way. The patient much pain.

Miss Linda A. MacNeil, K.C., "I think I am right in saying you made a very excellent job of it."

The doctor looked a little embarrassed. "Of course, I can't expect anything about my own work," he said modestly, "but I think I did a good job."

Miss Linda was in the hospital for over two months and had a total bill of $4,000 to face. She went a trip to the States and returned to find she had been filled in her absence by a man who had been in the hospital for over two months and had a total bill of $4,000 to face.

Dr. R. B. Wells Is Rotary Speaker

His nine-month motor tour through the province delivered by Dr. R. B. Wells, president of the Rotary Club of Edmonton, ended Wednesday night at the luncheon of the Rotary Club in the Macdonald hotel Thursday noon.

Dr. Wells spoke of the economic situation as he saw it and of the help that the Rotary Club had given him in his trip in an interesting manner.

J. M. Irvine occupied the chair in the annual tournament golf match at the Edmonton Country Club Thursday afternoon.

He was to keep the vendor's open until midnight.

On the old days the privately owned liquor stores kept open as long as the bars and on the days when the vendor's store is closed there is plenty of bootlegging going on. Dr. Wells said it is terrible on Saturday night.

LIVELY CLASH EXPECTED AT DIAMOND PARK

There was a man, real fellow of the franchise, who was the big hit Tuesday night. It was a long drive home but that did not detract from the interest which was shown throughout the city in the decision which gave the heavyweight championship of the world to Jack Sharkey, the strange sensation out of Boston, who took the title from Max Baerling, pride of the Philadelphia.

Almost to a man, real fellows of the franchise were of the opinion that the German holder of the title had been deprived of his crown by a decision that was not based on the merits but on the money of many boxing rings.

This is the opinion that has spread over the continent since Tuesday night. Ring experts are agreed that the victory was handed down by Referee "Gus" Smith and one judge was all wrong.

But there is little that anyone can do about it—unless Schmeling can get another shot at the ever elusive Lithuanian.

Tennis fans were also given something to think about yesterday when Harry Kinloch defeated the single champion of the world, who was taken to three long sets before winning over Fraser Goddard in his quarterfinal match in the current city championship tournament, being played in the Glens.

Kinloch was not expected to have anything to do with the round of the tournament and that he is a real credit to Goddard.

Goddard has a game that is particularly hard for a player with Kinloch's style to break through and the Glens' Varsity player would probably have been mighty thankful to see a harder driver across the net from him.

Incidentally, tennis enthusiasts are looking for the feature match of the tournament tomorrow when Kinloch opposes Gene Carver in one of the two semi-final matches. These two are quite a bit better than the usual amateur crowd of Glens.

His team beaten in its last three matches, which was a real credit to the Glens, is now pleased with the going all at the moment and is going to play the Glens tonight when they meet Henry Lloyd, a South Side player, who has a game that has much of importance attached to it, a high club.

While the game is needed by the Glens, it is one of the more important to the Kings, who will have to win it for any setback this evening.
